Logitech's Squeezebox is a fantastic network music player that transmits all the digital music stored on your PC to your stereo – through Wi-Fi or cables! Easy to set up and use, this powerful, well-thought device produces high-quality audio, without any skipping or delay. Its large, elegant display shows track titles, artists and menus: you can browse by genre, artist or playlist, or randomly mix your music. The Squeezebox also gives you access to a practically limitless number of Internet radios, even when your PC is switched off. It works with PC, Mac and Linux, and supports compressed and uncompressed music files.
